- <sup>2</sup> Some of the Fund's distributions will consist of a return of capital based on the character of income received from the underlying real estate investment funds. The final determination of the source and tax characteristics of all Fund distributions will be made after the end of the year and reported to shareholders on a Form 1099.

Bonds are represented by the Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index, an index of securities that are SEC-registered, taxable and dollar denominated. The index covers the U.S. investment grade fixed rate bond market, with index components for government and corporate securities, mortgage pass-through securities and asset-backed securities. These major sectors are subdivided into more specific indices that are calculated and reported on a regular basis.
Equities are represented by the S&P 500 Index, an unmanaged index of the 500 largest stocks (in terms of market value), weighted by market capitalization and considered representative of the broad stock market.
The MSCI US REIT Index is a free float-adjusted, market capitalization-weighted index of publicly listed U.S. Equity REITs not designated as Mortgage REITs or selected Specialized REITs.
Total returns presented assume reinvestment of distributions. Investors are not able to invest directly in the indices referenced in this illustration and unmanaged index returns do not reflect any fees, expenses or sales charges.
The referenced indices are shown for general market comparisons. Past performance does not guarantee future results.
- <sup>5</sup> The Standard Deviation is the amount of variance that took place for the designated time period. In general, the higher the standard deviation, the greater the volatility of return.
- <sup>6</sup> The Sharpe Ratio is a measure of risk-adjusted returns. It is calculated by using standard deviation and excess return to determine reward per unit of risk. In general, a higher Sharpe Ratio indicates better return for the same risk (or the same return for lower risk).

Risk Factors

The Fund will not invest in real estate directly but will concentrate its investments in other funds that invest principally in real estate and real estate related industry securities ("Underlying Investment Vehicles"). Portfolio returns will be significantly impacted by the performance of the real estate market. In general, real estate values can be affected by a variety of factors: supply and demand for properties, the economic health of the country or of different regions, and the strength of specific industries that rent properties.

PREDEX's distribution policy may, under certain circumstances, have certain adverse consequences to the Fund and its shareholders because it may result in a payment that is a return of capital, rather than a distribution. Fund shareholders will bear two layers of fees and expenses: asset-based fees and expenses at the PREDEX level, and asset-based fees, incentive allocations or fees and expenses at the Underlying Investment Vehicle level. PREDEX's performance depends in large part upon the performance of the Underlying Investment Vehicle managers and their selected strategies. The Fund is non-diversified and its performance may be more sensitive to any single economic, business, political or regulatory occurrence because PREDEX may invest more than 5% of its total assets in the securities of one or more issuers.

Quarterly repurchases by PREDEX of its shares typically will be funded from available cash or sales of portfolio securities. Payment for repurchased shares may require PREDEX to liquidate portfolio holdings earlier than the Adviser otherwise would liquidate such holdings, potentially resulting in losses. The use of leverage will cause an Underlying Investment Vehicle to incur additional expenses and significantly magnify losses in the event of underperformance of the assets purchased with borrowed money.
